Unions Asked To Eliminate Railroad Jobs

Featherbedding Rules Depreciated By U.S. Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission recommended today that labor unions give the nation's railroads broad leeway to streamline operations and eliminate thousands of jobs found unnecessary to run the trains.

The commission, reporting to President Kennedy conclusions of an exhaustive year-long study, said however the carriers would have to be prepared to ease the blow on displaced workers by providing them with partial pay for periods up to three years as well as schooling for other jobs.

Agree With Complaint

The report agreed with industry complaints that the railroads have been saddled with costly featherbedding rules and practices, requiring pay for unneeded work. Most locomotive firemen were found to serve no useful purpose and gradual elimination of their jobs was recommended.

But the commission also had much to say about the plight of the rail workers, whose ranks have dwindled from more than two million in 1920 to less than 800,000 today. The study was concerned only with the problems of the 200,000 rail operating employees—those manning the moving trains.

The report brought an angry dissent from the commission's union members who said it may lead to a nationwide strike. It was also disappointing to the rail industry, which had hoped for greater savings than will be immediately possible.

The rail industry quickly accepted the recommendations but the unions flatly rejected them. The Association of American Railroads, speaking for the industry, said the commission findings represent "an important contribution to the welfare of the country" and when made effective should stabilize employment and enable the carriers to improve service.

The unions said they stood to lose 80,000 jobs by conservative estimate and expressed determination that "the railroad operating employee will not become the 'sacrificial lamb' who must be destroyed in order to subsidize managerial incompetence."

The five unions involved called emergency meetings over the next two weeks to consider strike votes among their members.

Urges Prompt Talks
Simon H. Rifkind, former New York U.S. District judge and the commission chairman, expressed confidence that if both sides used the report "as a candle to light their way, and not as a radiator to heat them up," early agreement could be reached to help put the rail industry back on its feet.

The commission called on the carriers and unions—the engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors and switchmen—to begin prompt negotiations on the recommendations with the view of ending what it called 19th century

Charged With Evading Income Taxes

Stock Exchange Chairman Quits After Indictment

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell has resigned the powerful post of chairman of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange following a federal grand jury indictment charging him with evading $55,908 in income taxes.

He claimed persecution from "high places in Washington," and said "neither the investing public nor the stock exchange is involved."

The government, too, took pains to emphasize that the indictment dealt with Bidwell's personal taxes and had nothing to do with his activities at the exchange.

Nevertheless, the indictment added fire to the persistent rumors of a widespread tax investigation in the securities field.

The Internal Revenue Service began its tax investigation of Bidwell more than three years ago. Last year, the Securities and Exchange Commission turned an investigative eye on Wall Street that resulted in a shakeup at the American Stock Exchange.

Rebel Parliament Okays Talks

Final Negotiations Voted On Algeria

TUNIS (AP)—Algerian rebel leaders propose now to open "the ultimate phase" of peace negotiations with France and it should end with a cease-fire in Algeria, a rebel spokesman said today.

Information Minister Mohammed Yazid told newsmen the logical windup of the negotiations would be the close of the 7½-year-old Algerian rebellion.

A green light to enter the final negotiations was given in an announcement by the rebels' 54-member parliament—the National Council of the Algerian revolution, which had met secretly in Tripoli, Libya, for six days to weigh Paris-approved peace terms. The wording of the announcement indicated no major obstacles remain.

Provisional Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's government, in the opinion of various rebel sources, was given a free hand by the council to sign a pact with France after further talks.

"After a discussion of the negotiations with the government of the French republic," the parliament's communiqué said, "the National Council of the Algerian Revolution orders the provisional government of the Algerian republic to continue the negotiations in course."

Informed sources in Tripoli said Tuesday the parliament was set to announce approval of the terms, which the French cabinet endorsed last week.

But the final session in a police-guarded Libyan legislative building ran long and apparently encountered difficulty over some minor points. The agreement, sought by Ben Khedda, required the backing of four-fifths of the 54 parliamentarians.

The parliamentary announcement and Yazid's explanation came after return of the rebel leaders from Tripoli to their Tunis headquarters in exile.

Other rebel informants indicated an Algerian delegation may leave Tunis Saturday for Paris or some other French city for the final talks.

Rebel sources interpreted the communiqué to mean that the rebel parliament had given the rebel government a free hand to sign peace terms with France after the new round of talks. No further session of the council will be necessary, the sources said.

They added that the new talks with France will be overt and not held secretly as the recent negotiations near the French-Swiss border.

The accord approved by the French Cabinet provides for a council of French and Moslem Algerians to govern Algeria during a referendum. Moslems make up about 90 per cent of Algeria's 10 million population, and the referendum is certain to decide overwhelmingly for independence.

Glenn To Get Big Reception In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a real American hero to make New York turn handsprings in the way of a celebration. But that's just what it will have Thursday—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. and his fellow astronauts—and that's why the sky will be the limit.

Gotham is preparing for one of its biggest blasts of all times, weather permitting.

As the New York Times put it, "a reception fit for a king is being planned by the city for Glenn, America's first flesh-and-blood astronaut," and his six fellow astronauts.

Police said they couldn't estimate how many of the city's eight million residents would turn out but that they were expecting something close to a record demonstration if the weather is fair.

In any case, Glenn and colleagues will get the royal treatment.

There'll be the traditional ticker tape parade from the Battery to City Hall for formal greetings from Mayor Robert F. Wagner and others. Afterward there will be a procession to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for a luncheon and other festivities.

For the occasion, Lower Broadway's name will be changed to "Astronauts Way."

Schools located along the honored party's route from La Guardia Airport to lower Manhattan will permit teachers to take pupils out to see the motorcade go by. In other schools, students by the thousands will watch the day's activities on television or keep up with them by radio.

At City Hall, Wagner will read a proclamation designating Feb. 20—the day Glenn orbited the earth three times—as "Astronaut Day in New York City" as long as there is a New York City.

Among the most fantastic displays ever put on by New York—

Hundreds Flee Flood Areas In Four States

GOP Prepares Against Medical Aid Bill Drive

Congress Action On Plan Looking Up, Dems State

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders built new defenses today against a drive by President Kennedy to get congressional action on his proposal for a program of medical care for the elderly linked to Social Security.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois came up with figures on Illinois operations of the Kerr-Mills federal-state medical aid plan in support of his contention that Congress ought to delay any decision on the Kennedy program.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., cited what he called Kennedy's "sound objectives." But he said the President must make it clear to the country "the administration is looking for a law this year, not an issue in the fall elections."

Javits Asks Compromise

Javits called for a compromise which he said would preserve private and cooperative health plans and cover those not under Social Security.

Dirksen said he thinks the majority of Republicans in Congress believe that, with some amendments, the Kerr-Mills Act passed by Congress in 1960 can take care of needy elderly persons for hospitalization and medical expenses.

"Twenty-six states have put this plan in operation, and 12 legislatures will deal with it this year," Dirksen said in an interview. "It is moving along tolerably well, and it should do the job when we can get the bugs out of it."

Dirksen quoted figures from Illinois to support his case for the Kerr-Mills Act.

He said that from August to December 1961, 675 applications for assistance had been approved in Illinois, 460 were pending, and 624 were denied. He said the average payment was $495 a person.

Dirksen Plans Amendment

Dirksen said he intends to introduce an amendment to the law under which applicants would be required to sign only a statement of need and not to "pauperize" themselves.

At present aid is available to persons whose income does not exceed $1,800 a year or $2,800 for a couple.

Opponents have contended Kennedy's plan, which would call for a $1-billion increase in Social Security payroll taxes, would provide assistance for many persons who do not need financial aid.

Although Democratic leaders said after a White House conference

Air Force Reveals Loss Of 9 U2s Since 1956

WASHINGTON (AP)—At least nine U2 high altitude jets—like the one Francis Gary Powers flew over Russia—have been lost in crashes in the United States.

The Air Force disclosed this today in reply to a query.

The tally includes only the U2 aircraft operated by the Air Force itself and used for high altitude sampling of fallout, weather surveys and other research, the Air Force said.

It does not count the Powers' plane that went down deep in Soviet Russia in May 1960 or possible others operated by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Air Force said the reported losses of its U2s have been caused by various factors, including flame-outs, trouble with electrical systems and landing crashes.

Early last month, a U2 pilot flying near Picayune, Miss., ejected from his plane after what he said was a malfunction in the electrical system.

The U2 was built for a highly

9 Injured In Rail Collision

Passenger Train Plows Into Freight

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train today plowed into the wreckage of a freight train which had derailed almost simultaneously. Three diesel locomotives and 17 of 18 cars of the passenger train derailed, injuring at least nine persons.

The passenger train, the Pennsylvania Limited No. 55, was bound from New York to Chicago when the accident occurred 23 miles east of this central Pennsylvania community.

Ambulances took seven of the injured to Lewistown Hospital and two others to the Black Community Hospital here. A spokesman at Lewistown Hospital said only one person there appeared to be seriously injured.

Railroad spokesmen said the passenger train carried some 100 passengers and a crew of 21.

Railroad spokesmen said the locomotives of the passenger train upset but the passenger cars remained in an upright position.

The spokesmen said a burned-out journal might have caused the freight train to derail. Twelve cars of the Chicago to New York freight left the track. About 2,000 feet of track on both the passenger and freight trains were torn up. The passenger train did not have a chance to stop, the spokesmen said.

The engineer of the passenger train was identified as S. D. Miller, of Altoona, Pa. He suffered a fractured leg, the spokesmen said.

Dorothy Schlossberg, 45, of Wilmette, Ill., who was taken to Blue Hospital for treatment of a bruised leg and X rays said she

Damage Reported Slight So Far

Cold Wave Lessens Ohio Flood Threat

By The Associated Press

The threat of any heavy damage from flooding of rivers and streams in southern and central Ohio lessened somewhat today as colder temperatures moving into the state brought an end to heavy rains.

Many rivers and streams were over their banks, but thus far damage is reported as slight. Most of the water was going into low areas adjacent to the streams, blocking some roads and causing other inconveniences.

The state highway department reported numerous roads closed by water in the central and southern sections of the state. In the north and northwest sections, roads are wet and slippery in spots. Ice conditions caused schools to cancel classes in a wide area of northwestern Ohio, where rain gave way to a brief snowfall and sleet this morning.

In Cincinnati, a Weather Bureau spokesman said the Ohio River is now at 54.5 feet there and rising. The bureau is still not making a crest prediction in view of the heavy rains upstream, but said the previous forecast of 58.59 feet is undoubtedly too low. That figure is more than six feet above flood stage, but at a point not likely to do serious damage.

But two and a half inches of rain fell in the Queen City area Tuesday and precipitation recurred upriver to add to the load from heavy weekend rain and sleet an subsequent melting a runoff of snow and ice.

The Scioto, Hocking, Great Miami and Little Miami rivers all were above flood stage at most points. But few homes were imperiled, few evacuations had been necessary so far, and most main highways remained passable.

Lowlands along the banks went under, and many secondard were closed because of high water. Here and there, this forced closing of schools, especially in the Ironton area. Some 2.53 inches of rain fell there Tuesday, and nearly five inches since Friday.

The Ohio River, rising about six inches an hour, passed the 52-foot flood stage for Cincinnati during the night. Flood pumps were employed at Millcreek Barrier Dam and sections of flood gates were being set up. Flood gates were being erected in outlying areas near Ironton, and Portsmouth planned similar work today.

Portsmouth—where the Scioto flows into the Ohio—expected a 53-foot level of the Ohio by morning. Flood stage is 50 feet. Up the Scioto, water was reported six feet above flood level at Pike-eton but causing no serious trouble. Farther up the Scioto, which courses Columbus, Circleville and Chillicothe, the river was high but not dangerously so. The

3 Kentucky, West Virginia Towns Isolated

Highways, Schools Closed; Tennessee, Ohio Also Stricken

By The Associated Press
Damaging floodwaters from rain-swollen rivers and streams poured across broad lowland areas in Kentucky and three adjacent states today, driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

The late winter floods, in the wake of persistent, heavy rains, appeared to have caused the most damage and inconvenience in eastern and southeastern Kentucky.

There was much flooding and evacuation of families in West Virginia and Tennessee. In Ohio, several rivers were above flood stage but the situation did not appear critical immediately.

Three Communities Isolated

At least two communities in Kentucky and one in West Virginia were isolated by the ram-paging floodwaters. Scores of roads were blocked, including 50 in Kentucky. Some main highways in both Kentucky and West Virginia were impassable because of overflows and mudslides.

Many schools were closed in the water-soaked areas of Kentucky and West Virginia. One death was reported in West Virginia.

Thousands of acres of farmland in the flood-stricken region were inundated.

No immediate estimate of the over-all damage was made but it appeared likely property losses might run into the millions of dollars.

More Rain Expected

Although rains diminished during the night in parts of the soggy areas of western Tennessee and Kentucky, the Weather Bureau forecast rain or rain mixed with snow in most of the eastern half of the nation, including much of the region menaced by the overflows.

However, the Weather Bureau said, colder and drier air headed into western Tennessee and Kentucky and should diminish the rainfall considerably during the day.

The cold air spread from the North Central region which was in the grip of a severe cold snap. It was 36 below zero in Huron, S.D., the lowest reading since February 1905. The subzero cold, with marks around 30 below, clung to areas in North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana.

In Kentucky, the major flood belt appeared to extend from Ashland to Corbin, which is about 120 miles southeast of Louisville. National guard troops were sent

U.S. Battle Group Bound For Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—A new battle group of 1,500 American soldiers will move into West Berlin early next month, less than two months after arrival in West Germany from the United States, the U.S. Army Command announced today.

The 2nd Battle Group of the 47th Infantry, stationed in Augsburg since it participated in maneuvers in January, will replace the 1st Battle Group of the 19th Infantry as part of the American garrison in the divided city.

The motor movement of 3,000 men is regarded as a new assertion of Western rights to use the 110-mile highway lifeline through Communist-ruled East Germany.

It will be the third such major switch of American troops since the Communists built their concrete and barbed wire wall around West Berlin.

The announcement said Soviet authorities would be kept informed of details of the move. The Russians and the East Germans have protested the movement of U.S. forces to and from West Berlin but have not interfered with them,

County Officials To Hear Physicians

School Sabin Vaccine Plans To Be Discussed

LISBON — County school superintendents and administrators are scheduled to hear details of the March Sabin oral polio vaccine program in county schools today.

County School Supt. James L. McBride told the Columbiana County Board of Education Tuesday night that Dr. William Kolozsi and Dr. R. J. McConner of Salem will discuss phases of the immunization.

Atty. Donald Elliott, board member, said an all-county meeting of school boards will be held the week of March 19 at McKinley School in Lisbon.

Supt. McBride discussed the transportation problem of the Ancil Jones family in Southern Local District. The Southern Local Board is paying Jones $1 a day to transport his seven children 1.8 miles from their home to the school bus stop. Last year the board paid him $2.

Jones, who works in Canton, said the Southern Board is paying another family $2.50 per day for transportation.

The county board voted to ask the Southern Local Board to send a representative to the county board's next meeting on March 20 to discuss the matter.

Supt. McBride and Lorin Ruff, elementary consultant, reported on the American Association of School Administrators meeting they attended recently at Atlantic City.

Attendance officer Fred Lohman's report was read by Supt. McBride. It showed that he made 62 school calls and 27 home calls during January and drove 1,274 miles.

Bills of $1,576.72 were ordered paid.

Powers Said Cleared by Inquiry Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers may step out of the deep pocket of secrecy within a few days. But where or when wasn't made clear.

Officials said Tuesday a special inquiry board was winding up its questioning of Powers, 32, and was reported to have decided he had conducted himself about as well as possible under the circumstances when he was downed in the Soviet Union.

Powers, the officials said, would be available by Thursday to appear before any congressional committee that wants to talk to him. He has been tucked away in seclusion since the Russians freed him Feb. 10.

President Kennedy said at his news conference last week that the Powers inquiry would be completed by the middle of this week and the pilot then would be available to Congress and the press.

Informants indicated Tuesday that the flier could talk with the press after he appears before a congressional committee.

So far only one congressional group, the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has said definitely that it plans to question Powers. Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., announced the committee will call Powers at a closed session, probably next week.

The Senate Armed Services Committee will decide whether to hear him after it receives a closed-door briefing on the case Thursday from John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Powers presumably was working for the CIA when his high-flying photo-reconnaissance plane went down in flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960. The CIA has never acknowledged publicly Powers was one of its own.

CIA officials, who reportedly felt that Powers had let them down by permitting the Russians to capture him and his plane, now are understood to have changed their minds.

Congressional sources said the CIA was reported to be satisfied that the U2 pilot had given the Russians only minimal information.

Powers, whom the Russians sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, was exchanged in Berlin for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel, flown to the United States, and has been under questioning at an undisclosed hideaway.

pect to producer problems and plans to do the best possible job of planning.

So as to obtain this information as an improved basis on which to plan dairy programs, 50 per cent of the commercial dairy herds have received a questionnaire regarding their farm operations. These dairymen were selected on a random sample basis so that they will represent a true picture of Mahoning County producers. It is requested that all questionnaires be completed by Saturday, March 3 and returned to the Mahoning County Extension Office.

When all questionnaires are returned (approximately 150) the results will be calculated and a summary report prepared. No information regarding an individual herd will be released. This summary will be of interest to the producers and of great value to the Extension Dairy Committee, it is explained.

There is no relationship between this activity and other private, government or commercial activities.

List Planting Intentions

Several thousand Ohio farmers are taking part this week in the annual survey of farmers' planting intentions, made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

State Agricultural Statistician J. R. Kendall announced that he is sending an official survey card to a random sample of farmers throughout the State, asking each farmer to report the number of acres that he expects to plant to each major crop this year, and the number of acres planted to the same crops last year.

Reports from Ohio farmers will become part of a nationwide report on farmers' intentions to plant, to be issued by the Statistical Reporting Service of USDA March 19. This report, issued annually for more than 30 years, is useful to farmers in adjusting their own plans, to industries serving agriculture and to many public agencies.

Another survey on acres actually planted will be made about June 1.

Who Defines National Interest?

Labor Secretary Goldberg made a speech in Chicago last week that left the rafters ringing—but not with applause.

In a speech to the Executive Club he said the federal government would be the third party present in all labor negotiations from now on. He said the government would define and assert the national interest, instead of merely being the mediator in a difference of opinion between two private parties.

The Kennedy administration, he explained, had enough "courage" to step into labor disputes as one of the disputants, if necessary whereas the Eisenhower administration it will be recalled, stayed out of labor disputes as much as possible.

The intervention the country could expect from now on, Secretary Goldberg explained, would be in the interest of a "greater sense of national unity."

SECRETARY GOLDBERG believes the government must give more help to the collective bargaining process; that it is too important to be left up to labor unions and employers.

Ye, somewhat oddly, because he seems to think this is a new way of looking at it, the collective bargaining process was thought of not long ago as being too important to be left up to politicians. That was after President Truman had scared the country by ordering seizure of the steel industry for refusing to settle a dispute the way he thought it should be settled.

President Truman also had threatened to seize the railroads and draft railroad workers into the U.S. Army to keep them from striking. With rail unions rising up in arms over a work-rule report to be turned over by the Presidential Railroad Commission this week, Secretary Goldberg may have an early chance to find out how the national interest fits in with the problems of that industry.

The steel industry is the prime current example of federal intervention in an industrial contract. What Secretary Goldberg conveyed to his rapt listeners in Chicago was the news that steel is only the beginning—that from now on the federal government will intervene in all negotiations large and small.

THERE WAS NO applause reported. The rafters rang with silence.

If the national interest is going to be defined by the government in every negotiation for an industrial contract, that means it is going to be defined by individuals in the government—and that means individuals eventually will try to settle a contract by edict.

No one relishes a stalemate. Everyone dreads a strike that drags on and on at the expense of all parties concerned. But no one relishes a political administration's involvement in negotiations, other than as an administrator.

Everyone dreads the prospect of government-dictated settlements. They are the dire denial of the letter and the spirit of popular sovereignty.

The Moon On a Silver Platter

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has entered the first round of its fight for finances and the future never looked brighter. Odds-makers certainly would have to make NASA a heavy favorite to reach its goal of $2,260,000,000.

Take a look at its imposing list of front-line performers to see why its chances are rated so high. Appearing first as a witness before the House Space Committee is Alan Shepard. Following him will be Virgil (Gus) Grissom, and winding up the testimony will be John H. Glenn Jr., current hero of every body in the free world.

One Week Won't Tell the Story

While the Western World awaits the violent reaction that could make everything that has happened in the last seven violent years in Algeria seem like a prelude to ultimate horror, on certainty is emerging.

One week won't tell the story, nor will a month, or a year. A new status for Algeria can be worked out on paper by patient men. A plan can be put before France and the Algerians, including the Frenchmen who think of Algeria as their home. But the ful-

These three astronauts in all their public appearances have displayed qualities that even the sharpest critics of the space program had to admire. They are not only professionals in their specialized field but have displayed personality, wit and story-telling ability that enraptured the nation.

When this trio gets finished telling the story of the unlimited future in space and the necessity of funds to carry out the work, grizzled congressmen may be willing to give them the moon—but come to think of it that is what they're after.

fulfillment of the plan must be determined by a showdown between men of good will and men of bad will. The latter will not give up quickly and the former will not prevail quickly.

There can be — there well may be — another prolonged Congo crisis in Africa. There can be and well may be another unsought occasion for the United Nations to become embroiled in the chaos of African nationalism.

The irreconcilable French in Algeria may be as frustrating a problem as the irreconcilable Belgians in the Congo — strong enough to block a plan for progress but not strong enough to enforce their own reaction.

One of the fondest dreams of man is the hope of reasonableness in the face of anger and tension. But in practice the dream never comes true. It is shattered by the blast of bombs, the chatter of gunfire, the duplicity of self-seeking individuals, the chaos and violence of misled mobs.

Nations are not born according to logic. Their births are not presided over by efficient and cool-headed midwives.

There have been seven terrible years in Algeria and many more years than that of distrust, betrayal, hatred and confusion.

No quick and merciful end of the travail is possible.

We Like John Glenn

It's the qualities of humility of courageous John Glenn that have won him the admiration of us all, following his now-historic orbital flight. Despite all of the acclaim that was heaped upon him, our fellow Ohioan has remained a modest husband and father, serving his country and his God in a role that he seemed destined to fill.

And it is entirely fitting that Salem city officials tonight will adopt a resolution of honor to be formally presented to Col. Glenn at New Concord Saturday, along with a scroll which will contain the names of hundreds of Salem citizens.

Once Over

"Let us sink atomic bombs along with other weapons in the deepest part of the sea," urged Mrs. Khrushchev in appeal to American women the other day. But who would hold her husband while the women go ahead with the idea?

Mrs. Khrushchev seems a sincere, motherly type who, like most women, is dedicated to creating life, not hastening death. In all probability she wants no part of war and often chills Nikita with "Why can't you stop throwing your weight around?"

He must try her patience. It's possible that, as she made this appeal to women to get together and sink all weapons, she cautioned him with a firm "Now, don't you pop off and stir up the arms race smack in the middle of this appeal."

Men seem to have messed up the world. Their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters are disillusioned about their abilities. Few people doubt that, if the men could be scrapped the gals could take over and restore a sense of order, horse sense, good housekeeping, peace and neighborliness.

Few women are so thick they would try to dump all weapons of earth into deep sea without also dumping inventiveness, insults, ultimatums and monkey wrenches.

Given a free hand, Mrs. Khrushchev would never, we think, say "All out, girls, for a global dumping overboard of weapons" in one breath and in the next breath threaten United States with atomic bombs if it objected to Soviet stronghold a mashie-shot from Florida coast.

to wear. (There's never been a Ladies Weapons Sinking Costume designed so far.)

GHOSTWRITER told congress a general objected when words "vicious Communist challenge" was censored from speech and made to read "rising ethnic tide." General must have been model of self-control or he would have retaliated with attack and pursuit.

Jim Barton, won greatest fame as "Jeeters" in "Tobacco Road," but for half century he was a great performer in vaudeville and burlesque. e, like Clark & McCullough, came up from Columbia Burlesque. One of his surefire interpretations was that of a pixilated character's hallucinations and reactions. His car "He pulled a knife on me" as a climax to shindig with an inoffensive stranger was always a howl.

Keith Funston, head of New York Stock Exchange, predicts extension to a global stock exchange, with United States markets listing stocks from all over world. This will mark debut of the market addict who will declare "I've got a good tip on something in Brussels" and ask "What's good in Cairo?"

Huntington Hartford, chain-store heir, reportedly threw party for 1,000 guests on his island in Bahamas, ferrying them under full moon and including among guests four British Earls, the cream of Nassau society and many millionaires. Not once during the evening did anybody have to ask "What aisle will I find the sardines and crackers in?"

There's a rumor that on last Nile journey Liz Taylor, as Cleopatra, was pursued by several barges full of health insurance salesmen.

Carl Hayden, U.S. senator from Arizona, has been in Congress 50 years. How any man can stand that much noise so long is a mystery.

No Time to Relax!

Inside Labor

While the President of the U.S. was congratulating Lt. Col. Glenn for riding the skies, the national president of the electrical union congratulated the cable splicers at the Cape for the assist in getting the astronaut away up there. Not content with the dispatch of a telegram giving equal billing to the electricians, their chief threw in a line which slapped at some friends of mine in the U.S. Senate.

Since I'm sensitive in an old fashioned way to what is said about men I call friends, I take this as a personal affront. Why? First, here is a copy of the wire sent by the Electrical Brotherhood's president, Gordon Freeman, to his regional lieutenant, one Bob Palmer, who has tangled with the Senate, the Air Force, the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) just to mention a few.

"On behalf of the brotherhood's entire membership, may I extend heartfelt congratulations to the members of your local union and all your fellow workers for the essential party they played in making today's historic space flight possible.

"I fear that those who have been so ready to criticize the delays during the program will be too busy today to take note of the fact that without the efforts of the skilled workmen at the Cape Canaveral Base today's event would not have been possible."

But the record is not yet finished. Elsewhere there have been hundreds of missile base strikes. Last January was the worst month of the last eight. February now appears to be worse than January. Most of the walkouts are jurisdictional disputes.

Look at the most recent stoppage. It broke out at the Larson Air Force (Titan) Base at Moses Lake, Wash. The base there is 'lasing out from the first to the second operation. The first is the "brick and mortar stage."

That is the construction period. Then comes the installation of the Titan missile itself.

Between phases, water seeps into the underground silos. During phase one the construction workers man the pumps. During phase two, the installing union, the Machinists in this case, handle the pumps.

So the 500 construction workers hit the bricks there on Feb. 15th. They stayed out until the 19th because they wanted to pump out the water.

SHOULD THIS not be reported? If it is made public we might get some action in the local areas. Mr. Freeman knows this. When he tried to get his local boys back, or when he tried to keep his pledge to the White House and get his men to ban missile strikes, he well knows he wasn't able to.

There have been at least 68 important Electrical Brotherhood strikes on missile and space bases from July 1960 to Oct. '61. This does not include the month of May '61, for which there are no figures.

Fully half of these strikes were the result of battles with other unions for jurisdiction. Should this go unreported? Should the Senate overlook them?

Should the U.S. defense effort cost a penny more or be delayed a minute longer because ironworkers battle millwrights over the right to weld guard rails—as they did recently?

Of course not. Of course, there are skilled workers who put in a terrific day. Of course, without their technical know how there would be no space race. But their skills do not make them an elite.

And let's remember, it was Glenn who rode the fireball.

Conflict of Interest

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Was JFK Right In Okaying Bobby's Tour?

A curious kind of "conflict of interest" arises in the cases of Bobby and Ted Kennedy as they tour the world with the aura of their brother's presidency surrounding them wherever they go. Two questions are being asked: Are they trading on the position and prestige of a distinguished relative? Should they be disqualified from doing what comes naturally in their respective careers just because they happen to have a brother who is President of the United States?

There is only one instance in which a close relative of a president has later become the chief executive. John Adams, the second president, had been out of office 24 years and was 89 years old when his son, John Quincy Adams, was elected the sixth president. But this doesn't mean that relatives of several other presidents haven't tried for the presidency—as, for instance, the sons of Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt and William Howard Taft. It was not until 30 years after Mr. Taft became president that his son, Robert A. Taft, was elected United States senator and began his unsuccessful drive for the Republican presidential nomination.

The controversy over the Kennedys differs somewhat from any similar question raised heretofore. No president has ever given his brother a post in the Cabinet and then sent him abroad in the role of unofficial envoy or good will ambassador.

Milton Eisenhower, brother of President Eisenhower, was designated as a special envoy to Latin America, an area about which he had exceptional knowledge, but he volunteered his services without compensation and served his government without relation to any political career. He never was in the Cabinet.

When President-elect Kennedy was reported in December 1960 to be considering his brother for the post of attorney general, this writer said at the time that Robert Kennedy was "an able young man and ought not to be penalized just because he is the brother of the president-elect," and that the real question was, whether he was the best-qualified man in the country to direct the Department of Justice.

The same yardstick applies today. Was it in the best interest of the United States in the operation of its foreign policy to send Attorney General Kennedy around the world making contacts with high officials of foreign governments which are involved in major controversies of the day?

Naturally, the secretary of state, Dean Rusk, and the under secretary of state, George W. Ball, have risen to defend the President's action in authorizing his brother to deal with foreign governments. What else could these two officials do even if they felt it was an error? A member of the team defends what the captain of the team does, or resigns.

IT CAN BE ARGUED that it was a mistake for President Kennedy to take his brother away from his post as head of the Department of Justice, for which duties he is being paid a salary by the taxpayers, and to send him abroad for several weeks.

It wasn't a mistake for Bobby Kennedy, on the other hand, to take advantage of the opportunity to get worldwide notice and prestige for use in advancing his own political career.

When the attorney general wanted to go on the trip, how could his brother turn him down? After all, Bobby Kennedy had performed a remarkable job as a political mentor and political manager in the four years before JFK was elected President.

He knew how to line up delegations for the convention. He masterminded the strategy of the whole presidential election campaign.

The President himself happens to have been raised in the school of practical politics where a service like this doesn't go unwarded.

A related question is: What is a president's brother to do if he has political ambitions? Shall he take himself completely out of the Democratic administration that is in power and wait a few years till after his brother is out of the White House before embarking on a political career of his own?

The question answers itself. Bobby Kennedy is right from his own standpoint to take advantage of every opportunity to become nationally and internationally known.

THE PRESIDENT himself hasn't such an easy out. He must face the judgment of the American people someday as to whether it was right to pick as an unofficial envoy at a critical time in history a younger brother who had no previous experience or special qualifications for the ambassador's role he now adopts.

It is being asked on Capitol Hill why the vice president of the United States, Lyndon Johnson, wasn't given the assignment, since the country had already witnessed his successful missions abroad in the 13 months that the present administration has been in office.

Was it in the public interest not to take advantage of an opportunity to train a vice president for possible emergencies, or was it more important to reward his brother's political service and aid him in his ambition for higher office? That's the "conflict of interest" which President Kennedy faced in this unprecedented case.

Too Busy, Thanks

By TRUMAN TWILL

In reply to a kind invitation to join hands with a band of bird-watchers, this is to make clear I hold nothing against these people but will be unable to attend their meeting—or any meeting of such a nature. My time has been preempted by other things that bear watching in this wide and wonderful world.

When you've seen one bird you've seen 'em all. But as surely has been made plain by this time, I am a devoted girl-watcher and take it from me what a fellow can see in this wild-life division makes all our feathered friends seem inconsequential, especially since television.

The reason the lady I had been listening to radio with let me have a picture tube in the first place was because I was pointing over being deprived of an electronic image purporting to be a reasonable facsimile of a remarkable female named Dagmar. The lady I now watch Dagmars with is sympathetic about my girl-watching and even enters into discussions with me about the merits of the girls I watch.

With what time I have left after watching clouds. I watch scenery, including clouds. Sometimes the scenery includes birds, but even if birds are included I make no special point of watching them.

I am also a dog-watcher and cat-watcher. What I like to watch best is when one dog that has been persecuted by another dog finally turns on its tormentor and beats some sense into it. What I like to watch next most is the relaxation of cats, which are in such perfect command of their bodies they can sleep on the branch of a tree close by a bird feeder, in case some bird flies too close for safety.

One year I was a goose-watcher. There was a lady goose that kept laying eggs like a stuck slot machine until she had more than she could sit on, so she did sit—on 'em and she sit, set, sit, set, set! until one day the suspense was unbearable and I broke open an egg that was making a noise and there was this little goose inside trying to get out and then I broke other eggs and found that the little geese hadn't been able to get out of them and were "gone geese." The one little goose that lived grew up to be a mother, which goes to show how tentative some things can be.

And people-watching; that is people other than girls—like Negro children on their way to school because they convey the impression to me that they are fonder of one another than other children. They hold their smaller brothers and sisters by the hand and appear to me to be looking forward to school with more anticipation than I felt when I was a school child.

These are some of the reasons I won't be joining hands with the bird-watchers who have extended me such a kind invitation. Bird-watching bothers me the truth is because birds watch back which is a statement that cannot be made about any of the other things I watch especially girls. They never even glance at me.

up to her responsibilities as a mother with very little help from you.

Now she's enjoying life and I applaud her independence. You, my friend, are reaping what you sowed.

Simon Legree

Dear Ann: My next-door neighbor has a little boy 7 years old. He is one of the cutest little fellows I've ever seen. His mother is a timid soul who lets her husband make all the decisions in the family.

This child's father is demanding and opinionated. I've seen him almost pull the boy's arm out of its socket to get him into the house when one word would have done just as well. He slaps the child across the face and knocks him around constantly. Once he dislocated the boy's arm and they had to call the doctor.

The youngster stutters and holds his head down when he speaks to people. He is terrified of his Dear Ann Landers: What's wrong with my wife? We've been married for 30 years and raised seven fine children. She stayed home like a good woman should and took care of the kids. She also milked the cows and tended a big vegetable garden.

I used to go out a few nights a week with the boys. We played cards and had some drinks. I figured I owed myself this because I worked hard all day. There was no reason for both of us to be home with the kids.

Now they are all married. My wife got herself a job and bought a car. She runs to help out at church, the Red Cross and other such places. Her clothes are modern and she looks good.

I'm retired now and don't get out much any more. I want her to be here with me during the day. Please tell her to stay home where she belongs. She will listen to you.—BY MYSELF.

Dear By Yourself: Your wife sounds like a long-suffering, self-sacrificing woman who lived

BRIGHT IDEAS ... by Penny Power

"The Kitchen is a country in which there are always discoveries to be made," said a famous French chef. And, bride or matron, you've probably found that out!

Want to dress up that whipped cream pie? Run your potato parer over a chocolate bar (almonds and all!) and make fancy chocolate curls over the whipped cream topping.

Freezing? Line casserole dishes first with aluminum foil. Be sure there's enough to fold over the top. Once frozen, the wrapped food can be lifted out of casserole, freeing it for other dishes. Put foil-wrapped food back in casserole for reheating. (Just a nickel a day keeps a freezer full of food!)

Stews freeze very well. Freeze roast poultry unstuffed because of the danger of bacteria. Freeze pastries or meat or chicken pies unbaked. Undercook vegetables when adding to stews and casseroles so when reheated they won't have that warmed-over taste.

To press dark garments, put a black cloth over your ironing board. This prevents dark materials from picking up white lint, saves brushing later.

Just count the ways you use electric service every day. On the job around the clock, around the calendar—can you think of anything else that does so much yet costs so little?

Another use for the spray attachment on your vacuum cleaner: use it to apply liquid wax to linoleum or asphalt tile.

Your sewing machine needle won't stick when sewing plastic materials if you sew a strip of waxed paper into the seam. Tear off paper; your seam will be perfect.

Something to think about! It has been estimated that in the course of his lifetime an individual eats 64,000 meals, more or less. And somebody had to plan, buy and cook 'em!

In the average American home electricity does in one day what it would take 228 hours to do by hand. Nothing else does so much for so little! And you'll never run out of electricity, because your electric company plans and builds to keep the supply years ahead of the need. Do you wonder why we say electric service is the biggest bargain in your budget.

month in the resignations of President Edward T. McCormick and Board Chairman Joseph Reilly.

The two-count indictment handed up against Bidwell, 58, Tuesday, accused him of concealing capital gains, and faking expenses for travel, charitable contributions and entertainment.

The grand jury charged Bidwell with listing joint income with his wife for 1956 and 1957 at $124,404, when the actual income totaled $208,202. It said Bidwell listed taxes for the two years as $55,035, when the figure should have been $110,943.

Conviction could put him in prison for a maximum of 5 years and carries the possibility of a fine up to $10,000.

Bidwell, who will plead to the indictment on Monday before federal Judge John M. Cashin, issued a statement in which he declared, "I have fully paid all my taxes."

He said he had been engaged in controversy with the Internal Revenue Service over his 1956 and 1957 returns for more than three years.

"In light of the way negotiations have dragged on for more than three years and in view of the fact that my taxes have long been paid, isn't it strange that Washington would wait until I was chairman of the board and then pick this particular period of the year—around income tax filing time—to release a barrage of publicity before the matter was even presented to the grand jury?" Bidwell asked.

He charged that during the last month he had been "the target of a most disquieting series of leaks and planted stories from high places in Washington."

Bidwell, a native of Binghamton, N.Y., joined the exchange in 1941 as an independent floor broker, specializing in institutional business. He became a governor of the exchange April 3, 1958, and began a one-year term as chairman of the 33-man board May 15, 1961.

As board chairman, he presided board meetings and, with board approval, appointed all committees to consider matters pertaining to the administration and policy of the exchange.

Beauty Chased Out of Tampa Council Chamber

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Beauteous Miss Universe was chased out of Tampa's council chamber at City Hall but she wound up receiving a key to the city anyway.

The man who did the chasing said he didn't know who she was. His action set off a round of apologies.

The blonde beauty queen, Marlene Schmidt, 24, of West Germany and her party had started into the council chamber Tuesday to keep an appointment to see the city fathers at work.

A discussion between council members and a veterans group was in progress over alleged mishandling of American flags by city prisoners assigned to collect the colors displayed for George Washington's birthday.

Paul O'Hara, a publicist with the veterans group, rushed to the door and told the Miss Universe party to be quiet.

"We're discussing the American flag and Americanism in here and you're making too much noise," O'Hara told the group.

He took Miss Schmidt by the arm and guided her into the hall. "We're Americans, too," retorted a member of the party accompanying Miss Schmidt.

"I doubt that," the publicist fired back, and slammed the door. Miss Schmidt, said to be near tears, walked out of the building.

She later kept her appointment with Mayor Julius Lane and was given the key to the city.

Lane apologized to Miss Schmidt for the incident.

Asked about the encounter as he left the council meeting, O'Hara said: "Miss Universe doesn't interest me. They were making noise like a bunch of kids."

O'Hara said he planned to apologize to Miss Universe but added, "They should apologize to us, too."

Accident Victim Pleads Not Guilty

Tony Nocera, 71, of 311 W. 9th St., who was knocked down by a car as he walked across E. State St. Monday afternoon, pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of crossing a street against a red traffic signal at a preliminary hearing before Mayor Dean Cranmer Tuesday.

No date was set for another hearing.

Nocera suffered bruises of the left hand and right shoulder when he was struck by a car driven by Kalmon Paul Lazear, 35, of Youngstown. Nocera was walking from north to south across E. State St. and was about in the middle of the crosswalk, police said, when Lazear made a left turn off S. Broadway and struck the pedestrian.

Lazear turned on the "green arrow" but this signal can not be seen by persons walking across State St. from the south, police explained.

PICKETING CITY HALL

Repairs to Meters Under Way Here

Workers from the Magee-Hale Park-O Meter Co., Jackson, Mich., arrived here Tuesday afternoon to start putting a new part in all of the city's approximately 500 parking meters and also to convert the downtown on-street meters so that they will take pennies.

They started first to install new bearings on meters in the municipal lots.

The same improvements will then be made on the on-street meters, in addition to converting them to take pennies.

Meters in the three municipal lots will continue to take nothing less than a nickel.

Mayor Dean Cranmer and City Council approved the change back to penny meters along downtown curbs.

Diem Asks Return Of Pilot Who Bombed Palace

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem today asked Cambodia to turn over the Vietnamese pilot who crash-landed in Phnom Penh after taking part in Tuesday's air attack on his palace, the government news agency reported.

The pilot who got away after the unsuccessful attempt on Diem's life was identified as Sub-Lt. Nguyen Van Cu. His partner, Lt. Pham Phu Quoc, was captured when his plane was shot down shortly after the attack.

Quoc was being questioned today but there was no word so far of what lay behind the attack, which the government called an "isolated action," by the two pilots.

The government agency said four persons were killed and about 30 wounded by the rebel pilots, who also strafed Saigon's airfield and radio station. Among the injured was Diem's sister-in-law, Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, whose arm was hurt slightly by falling plaster from a ceiling in the palace.

Saigon appeared normal today with no sign of any uprising such as the 48-hour rebellion against Diem 15 months ago by five paratroop battalions.

The government said there was no indication that the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas it is trying to wipe out with American military aid had attempted to take advantage of the incident.

Almost nothing was known of the two dissident pilots. Civic Action Minister Ngo Trong Hieu told newsmen they had staged their sortie from the big military base at Bien Hoa, 20 miles northeast of Saigon, but he knew nothing about them or why they made the attack.

Palestine Planning Commission Activated

EAST PALESTINE — The city planning commission was reactivated at a meeting Tuesday night in City Hall.

Commission members decided to enforce the city building code which calls for the securing of a permit for any type of construction or remodeling of an outside nature. A $1 fee has been charged for such permits although the ordinance sets the fee at $2.

The $2 fee will now be enforced, the Commission decided. Mayor Robert Harding said that many persons have not bothered to obtain permits in the past.

The planning commission has been inactive for five years, except for the issuing of an occasional building permit. Jacob Istnick, secretary of the commission, issues the permits at 90 N. Market St.

The commission is obligated to send copies of these permits to the county auditor in Lisbon where they serve as a guide for making new appraisals.

The planning commission will meet again in March.

ALLIANCE MAN FINED

Alfred Reissen of Alliance forfeited a $15 bond in Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's court Tuesday for intoxication. He was arrested by police shortly before noon at Peoples drug store on E. State St. where he reportedly had been disturbing customers.

labor practices and launching of a new rail progress.

These are the principal recommendations:

Abolish firemen gradually beginning next July 1 from all freight and yard service locomotive crews. This alone would wipe out some 35,000 jobs within a decade—at eventual savings the carriers have estimated at $250 million a year. Firemen would continue on passenger train locomotives.

Give the railroads "an unlimited right to introduce technological change," subject to the continued pay and other protections provided for employees losing their jobs.

Eliminate crew change requirements at inter-divisional terminals.

Overhaul the complex operating employe pay system, so workers will be paid both for the time and mileage on their runs. The commission found widespread pay disparities and inequities which it recommended be corrected.

Shorten work hours for many workers. The commission found some employes work only four hours for a day's pay, others as much as 15 hours. It said a present 16-hour limit on a work day should be quickly reduced to 14 and eventually to 12.

Require more overtime pay to discourage the management from working men long hours. This also would help spread jobs. Along that line, an immediate mandatory retirement for men 70 or older was recommended. Over a five-year period the mandatory retirement age would be reduced to 65.

The commission was established by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in early 1961. James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor under Eisenhower, obtained an agreement between the carriers and the operating unions to establish the commission study.

THE FABULOUS FELINE or Dogs are Passe by Milan Greer. The proprietor of a famous New York cat shop tells how to train cats to win a mutual respect (cats, he says, never love their masters), how to feed the cat, what to do about its sex life, and even how to match a cat to your own personality.

A HISTORY OF INDIA by Michael Edwards. Five thousand years of Indian history, from the days when Europeans were still savages to the present when the nation is "young" and fiercely proud.

THE PATRIOT CHIEFS: A CHRONICLE OF AMERICAN INDIAN LEADERSHIP by Alvin M. Josephy, Jr. The deeds of nine Indian chiefs: Tecumseh, Osceola, Black Hawk, Crazy Horse, and Chief Haseph, and their efforts to unite their people and their desperate efforts to hold back the white invasion.

DIMENSIONS OF FREEDOM by Felix E. Oppenheim. A behaviorist study of the concept of freedom-freedom of will, freedom of action, political freedom, etc.

A RACING CAR DRIVER'S WORLD by Rudolf Caracciola. During his life, the author won first place in 149 races, from his first competition in 1922 driving a midget Fafnir to his great days adding to the laurels of Mercedes Benz. This is an account of those races.

ACTORS TALK ABOUT ACTING by Lewis Funke and John Booth. Fourteen actors - Vivian Leigh, Helen Hayes, Jose Ferrer, Katherine Cornell, Bert Lahr and others-give their own personal dramatic credos.

TEACHING YOUR CHILD RIGHT FROM WRONG by Dorothy K. Whyte. How to instill the right attitudes and objectives in a child during the years from six to twelve.

THE HEART OF THE HUNTER by Laurens van der Post. A continuation of the LOST WORLD OF THE KALAHARI, beginning where that book stopped. It tells of the Bushman, of his legends, and his closeness to nature - which the author believes we are losing.

THE WHOLE CREATION by Theodore Mossion. The lives of three men in a New England university town (the author teaches at Harvard) Kent Warner, an industrial engineer; his brother-in-PANTALOON by Philip Toynbee. Now in verse and now in prose, Richard Abberville, now eighty tells of his life in "brief and almost impatient illumination" of his parents, his brothers, his school days.

THE MIGHTY AND THEIR FALL by Ivy Compton-Burnett. An English country house story with the conflicts between clever children, a new stepmother, and others in a fading family. The book is full of clever conversation.

THE FOX IN THE ATTIC by Richard Hughes. The first volume in a projected series. Set in England and Germany during the twenties, it is centered upon Augustus, who decides to visit his distant relatives, the German von Kassens. There he falls in love with Mitzi, rapidly going blind, and discovers a madman in the attic, who eventually hangs himself. Mitzi enters a convent. The point of the book is the contrast between maturing England and Hitler's Germany.

A STAR IN THE WIND by Robert Nathan. An adventure into more substantial literature for the author of sensitive and imaginative romances. Joe Victor, American newsman has dissociated himself from his Jewish people until he meets Anna on a Jewish refugee ship, falls in love with her, and after her death at the hands of Arabs remains in Israel to fight.

Then, during his last year of parochial school he met Leila, who opened a new world for him. But the death of his younger brother made him decide to give up Leila for the church. The book has a Pennsylvania background.

How could he loot this Virginia plantation - and how could he restrain his dog-dirty troopers and Lt. Channing, who loved killing?

HONEY FOR TEA by Elizabeth Cadell. When Nancy jilted Allen for the gay life in Madrid, her sister Jenny, hoped she could replace her sister in Allen's affections. Then Allen's artist brother Rod arrived, and Jenny began to fall in love with him. At last all is happiness again, with typical Cadell humor and romance.

Bantamweight Fight Still On

Jofre To Battle Marquez For Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A suspension threat against bantamweight Eder Jofre of Brazil by a British boxing promoter apparently will have no effect on the world title defense here March 20.

Jofre will meet Mexican-born Herman Marquez of Stockton, Calif., in a 15-round bout at the Cow Palace.

Jack Solomons of London said Tuesday he will ask the regulating boxing bodies of the world to suspend Jofre if the Brazilian doesn't first go through with a return fight against Ireland's Johnny Caldwell.

Solomons said he sent a cablegram to Abraham Katzenelson, Jofre's manager, threatening to seek suspensions and a $100,000 judgment.

Katzenelson arrived in San Francisco Tuesday night and said Jofre would fight Caldwell but not until after fulfilling contract commitments for the Marquez bout.

Co-promoter George Parnassus said he had a prior agreement with the Brazilian manager for the bout here.

"When Jofre beat Eloy Sanchez of Mexico in Los Angeles for the vacated title about 16 months ago, he and Katzenelson agreed to make their first defense for me," Parnassus said.

Jofre was then recognized by the National Boxing Association as the champion but Caldwell was champion in Europe.

"When they had the chance to fight in Brazil for the undisputed title I said 'go ahead,'" Parnassus explained. "But after that I wanted them to honor their contract with me and they wanted to do it."

The undefeated Jofre stopped Caldwell in the 10th round of their fight-off for the world title at Sao Paulo. Solomons claimed he has an agreement for a return fight, presumably in London.

"I think my cables will stop the Marquez fight," the British promoter declared. "If Jofre loses his crown against Marquez, how can he defend it against Caldwell as we agreed?"

Findlay Leaves Mid-Ohio Loop

BLUFFTON, Ohio (AP) — The Mid-Ohio League went into a special meeting Tuesday night with seven members but emerged with only six. Findlay College said it is quitting the small college athletic conference.

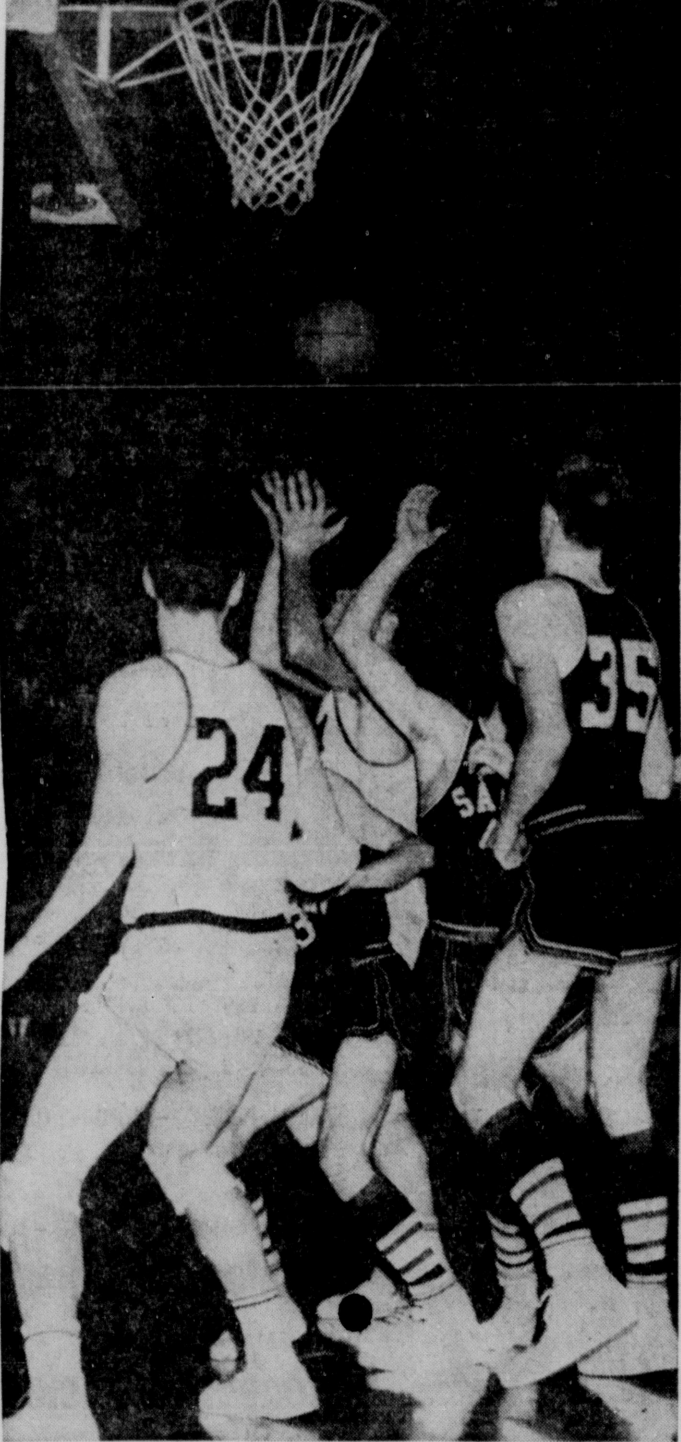

Findlay's football coach, Lou Juillerat, said the school objected to a league amendment restricting financial aid to athletes. Details of the amendment were not available immediately.

Juillerat said the Oilers will finish their spring sports schedule in the league, but thereafter will play teams in the Mid-Ohio only on an individual basis.

Ashland, Bluffton, Cedarville, Defiance, Wilmington and Ohio Northern round out the circuit.

HUBBARD CAGE TOURNEY

The annual Hubbard Boosters Club basketball tournament will be held March 19-24 in the Hubbard Junior High School gym, according to Bill McBride, director. Deadline for entries is noon, March 18. Entry blanks can be secured by writing McBride at 41 Fox St., Hubbard or Bruce Currie, 239 Princeton Ave., Hubbard.

Rams' End Phillips Top NFL Receiver, Statistics Reveal

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams pass receiving corps proved a tough nut to crack for the rest of the National Football League during the past season.

Official statistics released today showed Rams' end Jim Phillips as the top pass receiver and best one-game performer.

Phillips led the league in receptions with 78 for 14 games, three more than Baltimore's Ray Berry, who won last year with 74.

Phillips' 13 receptions in the final game of the season against Green Bay was the best one-game performance.

Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia had the most yards, 1,144. The Eagles' flankerback also scored the most touchdowns on passes, 13.

Frank Clarke of Dallas had the best average gain, 22.4 yards on 41 receptions.

Angels' Thomas Out With Fractured Foot

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Lee Thomas, probably the most valuable property the Los Angeles Angels own, has a fractured bone in his right foot.

Manager Bill Rigney said Tuesday Thomas will be idle until a special arch is made for him. Last year Thomas was runner-up to Boston's Don Schwall for rookie-of-the-year honors. Obtained in a trade from the New York Yankees, Thomas batted .285 and clouted 24 home runs.

Team Effort Moves Locals Into Finals

Thorne, Eskay Lead Attack; Chaney Opponent Friday

By LYNN BROWNE
News Sports Writer

Over 4,000 fans jammed the South High Field House Tuesday night to watch the Salem Quakers and the Struthers Wildcats battle to stay in the Youngstown Class AA Sectional Tournament.

And a tremendous game they saw as the Quakers exploded in the final period to dump the Wildcats 71-60 in a spine-tinging thriller from the opening tip until the final buzzer.

Tourney officials estimated an additional 500 persons were turned away when the doors were ordered closed at 6:15 by the fire marshal, due to the size of the crowd. Fans arriving as "late" as 6 p.m. for the 7:15 game were forced to sit in the aisles or stand.

The long wait until game time was not a quiet one as both the Struthers and the Salem cheerleaders led their respective fans in cheering "battles." No final decision was given as to which side won.

STRUTHERS' John Myers opened scoring as he sank a foul just 11 seconds after the start of the game. The lead exchanged hands seven times during the stanza before Salem moved to a seven point margin (14-7) as the game entered the second period.

Junior Bill Beery provided the Quakers' spark in the first frame as he hit for three outside shots and a lay-up for eight counters.

The Wildcats' Rich Cappola matched Beery's first period performance in the second canto as he led a Struthers rally that resulted in a 26-26 deadlock at intermission. Salem was definitely "cold" in the second quarter and a series of turn-overs cost them the lead.

Although the Quakers had troubles in the second period, they were small compared to the problems that developed early in the third. Struthers, with the scent of victory growing stronger with each passing minute, continued their fine play and swiftly moved to a 37-29 lead.

Salem wasn't ready to throw the towel in yet. Three buckets scored by Ted Thorne, one by Marlin Waller, a pair of free-throws by Bob Eskay and another charity toss by Gary Jeffries, while the Wildcats managed only one floor shot, gave the Quakers a 40-39 advantage with one minute remaining in the stanza. They led 42-41 as the game entered the last eight minutes of play.

ESKAY SHOULDERS the scoring burden in the final period. The scrappy senior co-captain swished the nets with three floor tries and four of four foul shots as Salem outpointed its lanky opponents 29-19 in the frame to win going away.

Eskay, who has played very little since injuring his back prior to the Niles game in January, didn't start the tilt but did play the biggest part of the fray. He played an inspired game and resumed his duties as floor general and outside scorer, finishing the game with 18 tallies.

Thorne, the other co-captain, has, in just the last few games, come into his own as a scorer. The big 6-6 center did a fine job on the boards, hauling down 16 rebounds and turned many of his teammates' misses into two-pointers. He was high man for Salem as he shoved in eight goals and three foul shots for 19 counters.

Beery, the Quakers' highest scorer during regular season play, ended the game with 14 counters despite sitting out a great portion of the game due to foul trouble.

ANOTHER TREAT for Salem fans was the return of Gary Jeffries to the starting lineup. The little, 5-10, southpaw connected for 12 points and created chaos under the boards, despite his small stature. Although he didn't get many rebounds, he did steal the ball on numerous occasions and tied up the big boys to stop them from getting easy rebound shots.

Struthers' 6-5 John Myers coped game scoring honors as he poured in five goals and 10 foul shots for 20 points. He fouled out of the game with 3:49 remaining in the tilt. Rich Cappola added 17 counters to the Wildcats' losing cause.

George Kerlek, Struthers' head coach, made no excuses for his team's loss. "I don't believe in excuses; I won't make excuses," he said. "We got beat by a good ball club."

"It was a real good game," he continued, but someone has to win and someone has to lose.

"We had the lead in the third period but couldn't keep it," he said. "After that we had to go into the man-to-man, and when you use that defense someone is bound to shake loose."

SALEM'S COACH John Cabas had nothing but praise for his charges, to say the least. "The kids played a tremendous game," he said. "Here was a beaten ball club in the third period that battled back to win. Struthers didn't consider the Quaker tradition," he remarked.

"Bob Eskay did an outstanding job in the fourth period," Cabas continued. "He broke their back. He's a wonderful player. He told the other players that he was taking Cappola, their best player, himself."

"I'm taking him all the way, so give me room," Cabas said. Eskay told his teammates in the dressing room.

"Ted Thorne played a fine game, too," Cabas said. "He did a good job battling their big boys on the boards. And Jeffries gave them a lot of trouble, too."

"The bench strength was there again," he continued. "Waller came off the bench to get a couple of key baskets."

Asked about the Quakers' "chill" in the second period Cabas said: "It was just one of those things. We had a couple of bad passes and got a couple bad calls. This charged them up and they got hot."

"The boys played like true champions in the fourth period, though," he concluded.

Salem will return to the Field House Friday night to battle Youngstown Chaney in the bracket final at 8 p.m. Chaney dumped

Crusaders Upend Boston College 86-75

Holy Cross Expected To Fill Ninth Spot In NIT Tourney

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jack (the Shot) Foley and his free-wheeling Crusaders from Holy Cross were expected today to be named the ninth team in the National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

The Shot, No. 2 scorer in the nation's major colleges, plunked in 34 points Tuesday night to lead the Crusaders to an 86-75 victory over Boston College in a showdown for an NIT spot.

Ken Norton, chief of the NIT selection committee, said he was watching the Holy Cross-BC game "with great interest."

In the Southwest Conference the race for the title and the NCAA tournament spot remained a two-way scramble between Southern Methodist and Texas Tech. SMU turned back Baylor 69-52, and Tech downed Texas A&M 69-49, and in the process eliminated the Aggies from the race.

Both SMU and Texas Tech now are 10-3 in the league with one more game to play. SMU goes up against Arkansas and Tech faces Rice next Tuesday. If they wind up in a tie for the title, they'll have a one-game playoff.

Holy Cross' victory over Boston College avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the Eagles. The Shot, a 6-foot-5 senior and Crusader co-captain, now has scored 734 points in 22 games.

Southern Methodist, which has been getting stronger as the season progresses, has won seven straight games. Joe Loudermilk, leading scorer in the Southwest Conference, pitched in 27 points to pace SMU. Harold Henson had 22 for Baylor.

Harold Hudgens was the big man in the Texas Tech victory over the Aggies, scoring 24 points and grabbing 13 rebounds.

Bowling Green, No. 7, was the only team in the top ten of the current Associated Press poll to play. The Mid-American Conference champions downed Detroit, an NCAA at-large entry, 89-55. Nate Thurmond had 24 points for the Falcons.

Connecticut, still hoping to push through to the Yankee Conference crown, whipped New Hampshire, 85-72, with Dave Comey getting 23 points, 19 of them in the second half. The Nutmeggers are in third place with a 6-3 record behind Massachusetts, 8-1, and Rhode Island, 6-2.

Thurmond, Komives Lead BG To 89-55 Rout of Detroit

By The Associated Press
Put down Bowling Green's Mid-American Conference champions as primed for the NCAA basketball tournament—and for another big year next season.

The Falcons, really rolling in high gear lately, shellacked a rival member of the upcoming NCAA Mid-East Regional cast Tuesday night. Their 21st victim in 23 outings was Detroit, by a one-sided 89-55 count.

The home fans got their last look at the BeeGees for 1961-62, but the only graduating senior on the whole squad is East Liverpool's Bob Dawson. Everybody else should be back next season—including the torrid tandem of Nate Thurmond and Butch Komives.

As usual, that twosome led the way Tuesday night. Thurmond scored 24 points, Komives 22. Thurmond pulled down 21 rebounds, helping BG to a two to one margin in that department.

Detroit might have made it closer, but Titan star Dave DeBusschere sprained an ankle in the first couple of minutes. He hobbled in and out of action thereafter, but could manage only nine points and two rebounds.

The Falcons close out their regular season at Loyola of Chicago Thursday, then prep for opening tourney foe Buffalo.

In Tuesday night's other Ohio college games, Heidelberg whipped Wooster 77-62 in the season finale for both teams—and put the Scots at the bottom of the Ohio Conference standings; Central State broke the century mark for a sixth time, 101-79 over Cedarville, and Malone bested Clarion (Pa.) 74-63.

Sam Schubert's 22 points led Heidelberg out of the O.C. basement as the Princes and Wooster each finished 5-17 over-all. Central State closed out its regular season with a 13-7 mark.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

So far during the 1962 open season on beaver trapping, 31 beavers have been taken in Columbiana County, the largest weighing 50½ pounds and taken by Walter Hall of Salem.

Looking over the beaver harvest report, some interesting facts are revealed. For instance, the 50½-pound beaver had a 12 inch tail measurement and a seven and one-half inch hind foot. A smaller beaver weighing 35½ pounds had a 11½ inch tail and an eight inch foot. Foot measurements are taken from the base of the heel to the tip of the toes. Like people, some have big feet and small bodies, while others may have large bodies and small feet.

Someone said, "there's more than one way to skin a cat," but beaver trappers have found out there's only one way to skin a beaver and that is to cut every inch of the hide off the carcass. This is quite a job and if the skinning is not done properly and all flesh and gristle has not been removed and the hide stretched as round as possible the raw pelt will be worth less.

SINCE BEAVER trapping is relatively new, the inexperienced trappers are finding out that there's a right approach and a wrong approach in selecting the proper trap set. Too much disturbance around a beaver house "spooks" the animals and they remain in hiding and won't leave their dens. In that case the beavers do not move around and none of the colony are trapped. Sometimes, however, a little cub moves out of the den and gets snared in a trap. Cubs weighing only four or five pounds are worth very little.

Only an inexperienced trapper would rear a beaver house apart in order to set his traps. Not only is this a flagrant violation of the game laws and causes the beaver to move out for good and none will be trapped, it also leaves the beavers with no place to go. They build their huts during the spring and summer in order to survive the winter freeze-ups.

FOUR CANADA gees were seen at Lake Guilford last week, standing on the edge of the ice near open water. Another flock was seen flying overhead. One old timer said this was a sure sign of an early spring. I sure hope he knows what he's talking about. It's nice to think we can all emerge from the winter "hibernation" most any day now with the approach of March.

With beaver trapping and grouse hunting season now past until next year, the nimrods have very little to do unless they take to vermin hunting. Clyde Bailey of Salem advises me he is one of the instigators in forming a vermin hunting organization. This sounds like a good deal. Not only going after foxes, but crow hunting competition with a trophy to the winner would stimulate a lot of interest. If such a contest should be set up with high-fi record players or crow calls, keep in mind that this can be done legally on week days only. Crows may not be shot on Sunday, that's the law, although there is no law on foxes.

Reds' Jay Still Holding Out

Lack of Power Frets Colts; Orioles Bank on Nicholson

By The Associated Press
Manager Harry Craft of the Houston Colts today conceded that his club lacks power but—like the guy whistling past the graveyard—bravely pointed out that he is possessed of some defense and line drive hitting.

"There is no substitute for power," he conceded at the Colts' camp at Apache Junction, Ariz., "but the closest thing to it in our situation is defense and line drive hitting. We know we have some of that."

Craft greeted a half dozen of his outfielders Tuesday and immediately began looking elsewhere for power. Altogether they hit nine major league home runs last season.

"I am pleased," said Craft, "that they all can play center field."

General Manager Paul Richards said there might be some changes before the regular season opens on April 10.

While Craft frets over his power problems, Manager Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles is holding his breath hoping Dave Nicholson, a $115,000 bonus baby four years ago is ready.

In four seasons in the minors, the 6-foot-3, 210-pound Nicholson struck out 473 times in 1,398 at bats, but he also hit 71 home runs. He has exhausted his limit of three minor league options.

With the signing of Roger Maris by the New York Yankees, the top holdout is Joey Jay, a 21-game winner with the Cincinnati Reds last year. He is demanding $30,000 "or more," and has been offered a contract of $22,500.

Jay, who is part owner of some West Virginia oil wells, said he'll quit unless he gets what he wants. Elsewhere: Eddie Bressoud, the new shortstop of the Boston Red Sox, said riding the bench last year with the San Francisco Giants may have helped a torn cartilage in his knee. Duke Snider, a 15-year member of the club, was appointed captain of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Win Crouvell, an 18-year-old catcher from Amsterdam, the Netherlands, worked out with the Chicago White Sox. His townspeople raised the money to finance his trip. Los Angeles Angels' Lee Thomas fractured a bone in his right foot and will be idle until a special arch is made for him.

BOWLING TOURNEY SET

The Salem Women's Bowling Association will hold its 23rd annual City Tournament at the Kyrer Lanes in Columbiana, beginning March 3-4, according to Julia Ellis, Association secretary. Seventy-six teams (88 doubles and 176 singles) from the district are entered. The tourney will run each weekend for four weeks, ending March 24-25.

Cites Pressure To Drop AFL Plans

Hunt Testifies About Cowboys Stock Offer

By PETE SCHNEIDER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lamar Hunt, chairman of the American Football League, says Texas financier Clint Murchison once offered him a substantial amount of stock in the Dallas Cowboys if Hunt would drop plans to organize the AFL.

Hunt, himself a Texas millionaire, testified in U.S. District Court Tuesday that Murchison—owner of the Cowboys of the National Football League—told him having two teams in Dallas "was a ridiculous situation and we both would lose a lot of money."

Murchison also said, "I do not believe the AFL will succeed," Hunt related.

Hunt logged eight hours of testimony in the first two days of the trial of the AFL's $10-million antitrust suit against the older NFL, and was to resume his testimony today.

The trial is expected to last about three months. Chief District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen is hearing the case without a jury.

The AFL is seeking $10,080,000 in damages from the NFL, claiming the older league tried to monopolize professional football by announcing expansion plans after the AFL had received seven franchise commitments.

Hunt named a long list of NFL owners who he said concurred in the belief the AFL was doomed to failure. He testified that at least one of the NFL owners, Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts, said he "would do everything he could to fight the AFL."

Many Workers of Retirement Age Can Get Benefits

Are you among the many workers past retirement age who have not yet applied for social security benefits because you are still employed? If so, you may be losing benefits to which you are entitled.

A recent change in the law now makes it possible for many more older people to work and still be paid some social security benefits. You don't have to retire completely to get benefits.

Under the law as it stands now, you can earn up to $1,200 a year and still collect benefits for every month. If you earn over $1,200 a year, you will lose some benefits. One dollar of social security benefits is withheld for each $2 earned between $1,200 and $1,700. For every $1 earned over $1,700, $1 of benefits will be withheld.

For example, if you earned $2,100 in a year, $650 in benefits would be held back (one-half of the $500 between $1,200 and $1,700, plus the $400 in excess of $1,700.) If your monthly benefit rate amounted to $120, your yearly benefit amount of $1,440 would be reduced by $650, permitting you to get $790 in benefits for the year.

If you have dependents eligible for benefits, your earnings can be correspondingly higher without losing all of your social security benefits.

If you have reached retirement age but are still working, check with your local social security office. A delay in filing could result in loss of benefits.

WOMAN IS PROMOTED

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland area supervisor for the Ohio Welfare Department has been promoted to chief of the statewide Division of Social Administration. She is Mrs. Katharine P. Williamson.

Money, Liquor Stolen At W. Point DAV Hall

LISBON — An undetermined amount of money and six bottles of liquor were reported stolen early Monday morning from the Disabled American Veteran's hall at West Point, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Chief Deputy James Miller said the money was taken from under the cash register and the liquor from the bar.

The sheriff's office was notified Tuesday morning of the entry by Paul Rinestine of East Liverpool, an employee who discovered the burglary when he reported for work.

SCHOOLS FUNDS MAILED

Solar prominences were photographed during Feb. 22, 1962 total eclipse. They may last several hours or more, reach tremendous heights. White circle at right represents size of earth.

The sun in white or natural light is shown at A; in hydrogen light at B; in calcium light at C. Close-up of sunspot field is at D. Satellites may reveal data unobtainable from the ground.

Orbiting Solar Observatory positions itself by firing small jets, begins measuring sun's ultraviolet and X-ray radiations.

NASA Prepares For Assault On The Sun

While man has learned much about his star, the sun, with telescopes and other instruments, he is limited (as well as protected) by the heavy blanket of atmosphere through which he must look. That is why National Aeronautics and Space Administration will launch a 440-pound 37-inch-high Orbiting Solar Observatory (OSO). Costing $7 million, the satellite will carry 13 different experiments to study the sun. One result hoped for is the eventual ability to predict solar flares, eruptions on the sun which black out global communications and could prevent manned flight to the moon. The first OSO will ride above the earth at 300 miles. Later versions will be sent into solar orbit.

2 Drivers Cited A'ter Collisions

Two Canton drivers were arrested following separate traffic mishaps Tuesday on area highways. There were no injuries.

John Badertscher, 58, was cited for driving left of center after his car collided with an auto operated by Edmond Regester, 41, of Buffalo, N.Y., at 4:15 p.m. on Rt. 62, about one mile west of Salem.

According to the Ohio Highway Patrol, Badertscher attempted to stop for a vehicle in front of him but skidded left of center and struck the oncoming car operated by Regester.

Marie Powell, 46, of Canton was involved in a one-car mishap on Alternate Rt. 14, about one mile west of Washingtonville, at 5:15 p.m. The Patrol said she failed to negotiate a curve, ran off the right side of the road and struck a traffic sign. She was cited for reckless operation.
